The handling and distribution of the products is a delicate commitment, which demands logistics solutions tailored to the task. After having been a typical B2B branch the segment is through the increased e-commerce gradually developing towards direct delivery to consumers (B2C).

The customer orders are captured via a web portal. Green Cargo picks and packs the orders and sends them to the customers by the most optimal mode of delivery.

A couple of major distributors on the book market have during the last years entrusted Green Cargo the operation of their logistics which is distinguished by large and complex structures. The operations are performed both in manual and in semi-automated flows. The distribution set-up is split in mail, parcel and general cargo solutions to consumers and greater pallet shipments and part loads to wholesalers.

Control tower

To increase the availability of information from the logistics flow, Green Cargo provides a web portal where information showing different activities and their status is monitored. In addition, reports presenting different statistical data are available.

The system enables customers and receivers, irrespective of haulier, to monitor and follow up their stock and orders.

The Control Tower increases all parties' possibilities of planning and optimization of utilized resources.
